While Ramesh (Rituparna Sengupta) and his family (Asha Gupta and Shreya Gupta) live in a slum, Seema (Tanuja) is a middle-class girl who lives in a posh neighbourhood. Ramesh goes to a coaching centre to prepare for IAS exams while Seema marries a rich boy, Dayal (Meher Vij), who is an addict. Ramesh comes back to Seema and Dayal's house to get some documents. At night, he comes to know that Seema is in the same house with Dayal. Ramesh then leaves the house with the intention of getting Seema, who is in great trouble with Dayal. Ramesh tracks down Dayal at a gambling den and tries to save Seema. He and Dayal fight and Dayal shoots Ramesh. Seema eventually regains the documents she had stolen from Dayal and the family is reunited. Cast Rituparna Sengupta as Ramesh Chatterjee, Tanuja as Seema, Meher Vij as Dayal, Shreya Gupta as Ramesh's sister Asha Gupta, as Seema's mother Kumud Mishra as Jugran Ravi Kanojia as Mackey Diptar Bhattacharya as PCS Basu Production Roop Ki Rani Choron Ka Raja is the first production of Barjor Films, founded by Arunabh Sinha. The film is directed by Subyaschi Chakraborty and produced by Arunabh Sinha and Reetu Sinha under the banner of G-Screen Ventures. The film's music is composed by Mahub Talukdar, while the background score is composed by Bapi Chandraskar. Filming The entire shooting for the film started on 10 March 2012 in Delhi. The film's look is close to 1970s. Arunabh Sinha said, "We want to keep the budget low, so we are planning to shoot on a normal basis. The trendsetter, a T.V. Serial named Yeh Hai India, was shot in 10 days. If we do it in a cheaper manner, we will be able to shoot for a long time in the capital." The film's shooting was halted for three months in order to focus on the shooting of Tanuja's debut 82157476af
